

Fish in Schools Competition

During Fish in Schools, pupils learned about their local rivers and some of the challenges they face such as litter and pollution.

Our competition is all about promoting your river and encouraging your local community to take better care of it, so it can be enjoyed by everyone.

We would like to invite your class to come up with a way to share their message with the local community. Be creative – this could be anything from an info leaflet or letter, to a song, video or podcast!

The best class entry will win a “guddle” event for their local community where we will help strengthen your message by taking a closer look at the wildlife your river supports. See below for details!

THE RULES:

- 1) One entry per class.
- 2) Closing date: Friday 31st March.
- 3) How to enter:
 - Electronic entries: as some electronic entries may be very large please either send us a link (if you put them on your blog or website) or upload a copy to the competition folder here (select NEW > File upload).
 - In the case of leaflets, etc. please upload a photo or send your entry to Gemma Jennings, Clyde River Foundation, Graham Kerr Building, University of Glasgow, G118QQ.

Entries will be showcased on our website.

THE PRIZE:

The winning class will win a ‘guddle’ for the local community.

This fun event will involve an electrofishing demo by Clyde River Foundation scientists and participants will be invited to join us with some invertebrate sampling – wellies recommended!
